

GBS K.K. is local entity of GBS German Bionic Systems GmbH, headquarter located in Augsburg, is the first German manufacturer to develop and produce exoskeletons for use in industrial production.

Cray X exoskeleton supports the wearer's lower back when lifting heavy loads, by actively simulating and strengthening movements.

Exoskeletons come into play when human work cannot realistically be replaced by full automation or robotics systems.

